Since 1969, Sterns & Weinroth has made a mission of providing highly efficient, cost-effective and personalized services to its clients. The 36-lawyer Trenton firm prides itself on its proactive and individualized philosophy. Founder Joel Sterns describes the firm's focus as follows: "Most of the firm's lawyers have enjoyed success with large law firms, but made conscious decisions to practice in a more personal setting with Sterns & Weinroth. We're committed to establishing long term client relationships, and we share a common vision of exemplary client service." The firm is pleased to have four directors — founding director Sterns, managing director William Bigham, director Simon Kimmelman, and director Frank Petrino — honored as 2006 Super Lawyers.

Sterns & Weinroth's attorneys tailor their extensive experience to the specific needs of each client, in the firm's five primary practice areas: administrative/governmental, bankruptcy/creditors' rights, gaming, litigation, and real estate/transactional law. Within these practice areas, the firm's attorneys further handle employment, equine, lobbying and public contract, insurance

Sterns & Weinroth's founding directors established a practice with fundamental ties to state and local government, and the firm maintains a thorough, first-hand knowledge of inner regulatory and legislative workings. Its attorneys assist clients in developing positions and reviewing agendas before the State's legislative and executive branches. The firm is strategically positioned to gain access to key decision-makers at all levels. Even its location — in New Jersey's capital city, close to the Statehouse in Trenton — enhances the firm's ability to quickly access key people and information.

After nearly four decades of legal distinction, Sterns & Weinroth continues its pledge to exceptional performance. Says Bigham, "The attorneys named as Super Lawyers this year have remained together essentially since the start of their legal careers. The friendships we've forged have helped the firm maintain an extraordinary organization, and our peers and clients continue to regard us as providers of excellent legal services."
